

Microfield and the plasma non-ideality

N.N. Kalitkin, I.A. Kozlitin

Institute for Mathematical Modeling of Russian Academy of Sciences, Moscow

Usually plasma non-ideality is explained by direct interaction of charged particles. But another model may be used. Movement of charged particles creates fluctuated microfield. This microfield interacts with particles. The method is proposed to account this interaction and its contribution in ionization and other plasma properties.